Sinking Springs Elementary School — New Elementary School

Manchester Township, Pennsylvania

This project involves the design of a new elementary school intended to serve 750 students in the Central York School District. Based on a pinwheel concept that promotes excellent visibility from a central point, the design addresses concerns for the students' safety following a security incident at a neighboring district. The project, which also includes complete site design, additionally focuses on providing community space for the students.

Estimated completion 2007
